2. The conclusions and recommendations contained in this draft study result from consideration of the factors involved such as expected methods of receipt of materiel, limitations imposed by available locations, future need for [REDACTED] in support of other possible WH activities, capital investments involved, and [REDACTED]. It will be noted that the major ingredient missing is a firm operational concept developed to the degree necessary for extraction of future support requirements. Such requirements could be utilized to revise stockage objectives at [REDACTED]. Additionally, the availability of such an operational concept might have an influence on the study, which could cause changes in the conclusions and recommendations. If such a concept can be obtained by you, then this study should be reviewed for possible revision.
